

3 DAY DETOX

Why Detox?

The purpose of a detox is to cleanse the body of stored toxins. Every human does have built in 'detox' mechanisms in our bodies, however, with our lifestyle today and the polluted world we live in, our bodies receive more toxins than it is built to handle. Therefore by going through a detox a couple times a year, we help flush out toxins which are stored in fat reservoirs bringing our system back into normal balance. This only happens when you go past the 24 hour mark at a major caloric deficit, which is why our detox programs are 2 days minimum.

What you can expect?

Depending on how 'toxic' your body is you may have symptoms of nausea and headaches. This is not abnormal, however if you find any major discomfort or vomiting sets in, you may want to discontinue. Due to the low caloric intake, you may find yourself with low energy, a little shaky or dizzy at times. This again is a normal reaction. You may also not have a bowel movement as you are having no fiber, do not be concerned, the bowels will begin to move 24 hours after you start eating again. On the other hand, if you do have stools in your colon, it's very possible that they will move out due to the beet juice, so be prepared for both cases. Lots of urination should happen as it's a liquid diet and your body will be flushing.

Getting Started

Make sure that you have 2 days that are quiet and a 'low activity' schedule. You want to make sure that you will be able to get outside to go for a walk each day and also have plenty of rest time. If you are a female and menstruating, this is not a good time to do the fast. Wait until it's over. Some people find it's easier to go through the fast during busy work days to keep their mind off of food, this would be your personal choice, but a quiet 'low-key' environment is better for the detox.
